THE BOGEYMAN

Enric Lluch & Miguel Ángel Díez

The Bogeyman was travelling on a train.

One day, he arrived at a village full of what seemed like naughty children.

“Mmm... Just the right kind to fill up my sack with!”

A man with a moustache confirmed his suspicions:

“They’re all naughty, they never get sleepy and they never want to eat their food.”

The Bogeyman was very happy.

He went to the park where the badly behaved children were playing.

“It’s time to go home for tea, and then to bed,” their parents said.

“No, we don’t want to! We don’t want to!” answered the children.
